FRANK B. GILBRETH. GENERAL CONTRACTOR.

We solicit work on the basis of cost-plus-a-fixed rum as being the contract at once most advanta geous to the owner and equitable to the contractor. We undertake only that work on which the owner desires construction of the highest class in the shortest possible time, and is in turn willing that 34 W. 26TH ST., NEW YORK.

TOOK A SLEUTH TO CALL. Then Had Jockey Ex-Sweetheart, Who

Claims McCarren's Friendship, Arrested. Charles Stanton, a jockey, of 151 Stagg street, Brooklyn, who said he had a pull with Senator McCarren, was in the Yorkville police court yesterday on complaint of his former sweetheart, Nellie Lee of 538 East Fourteenth street. The young woman said that he had stolen $15 worth of shells and a mink muff and boa valued at $75 from her. The shells came from the West Indies and were of various colors. They were arranged on a panel and the words "Forget Me Not" were formed of the blue shells. Her brother, who is now dead, gave them to her eight years ago when she was 10 years old.

The girl said that she had at one time expected to marry Stanton, but had recently dismissed him for good reasons, which she would not tell.

The defendant's lawyer did not deny that his client took the articles, but tried to prove that the girl did not know the value of them.

"We played a trick on my sweetheart; and got back the shells and the pawn ticket for the furs," the girl said.

"What was the trick?" asked the Magistrate.

"I went to the East Twenty-second street station and told about my things being taken," she explained. "Detective Herzing went with me to Stanton's home in Brooklyn, taken," she explained. "Detective Herzing went with me to Stanton's home in Brooklyn, and called him to the door.

"This is Mr. Goodman, my new beau, and we came over to see about my things," I said to Mr. Stanton as I introduced the detective. Mr. Stanton as I introduced the detective. Mr. Stanton wanted to know what the other fellow was butting in for, and the detective said he was willing to make good if my old lover would give back my things."

The jockey said he was willing to return the articles if he was paid $15, the girl said. He said he had paid that much money in buying ice cream for the girl and taking her about to places of amusement. The detective offered to give up $15 for the articles. The jockey handed over the shells and a pawn ticket for the furs. The detective then showed his shield and told the jockey he was under arrest.

Stanton is a small man, but he tackled the cop and the noise brought out the jockey's mother and sisters. Herzing went down and had his clothing torn and got some bruises, but in the end he took the prisoner along with him.

"I'll get out of this all right, for Senator McCarren is my friend," Herzing says the prisoner remarked to him.

There was no evidence in court that the Brooklyn Senator was interested in the case. Magistrate Walsh held the jockey Brooklyn Senator was interested in the case. Magistrate Walsh held the jockey in $500 bail for trial. HORSE A LOSER, MAN ARRESTED.

Woman Says Her $50 Wasn't Lost, but Just Pocketed.

Fred Short, 25 years old, an Austrian; who lives at the Hotel Cadillac, was a priswho hves at the Hotel Cadillad, was a pris-ener in the West Side court yesterday on complaint of Maud Monroe of 102 West Forty-third street. The woman said she gave him $50 to bet on a horse at the Bel-mont track. She alleges that he did not wager the money at all, but put it in his own pocket. The horse lost and he told her the money went on it. Then she had him arrested.

Detective Quinn said in court that other women had made similar complaints against Short, and that this was his particular Monroe was not in court and Magis-trate Wahle postponed the case until to-day. Short was held in $500 bail.
